

Certified Internal Consultant/Governance Matters.com Inc. Relationship Description

Authority

GovernanceMatters.com Inc. (GM) is the source of authority for each consultant it certifies to provide internal consulting services using the Relationship Model™ (RM). The certification shall be granted following payment of the posted price and the successful completion of a conceptual 16-week course of training.

GM authorizes the certified consultant to:

- Provide consulting services using the Relationship Model™, and
- Use the training exclusively for internal work consulting where the consultant is a staff member, board member, or volunteer

Limitations of Authority

Certified RM internal consultants may not:

- Add, delete or modify components of the Relationship Model™ that would invalidate the Ten Principles of the RM
- Distribute products produced by GM without informing and compensating GM according to the terms of this agreement
- Violate copyrights or trademarks of GM or make use of them without certification.
- Provide consulting services to organizations of which the consultant is not a staff member, board member, or volunteer.

Responsibility

The responsibility of certified RM internal consultants is to:

- Offer products and services in the Relationship Model™ to their own organization in the areas of governance, leadership, management and service delivery.

Expectations of Responsibility

The expectations of the certified RM consultant are to:

- Notify GM of each sale of products and/or services

- Forward payment of products and services within thirty (30) days of the sale of such products and services to the certified consultant or client
- Work within the limitations of this certification agreement
- Provide an annual report of consulting service provided to GovernanceMatters.com to maintain annual certification.

Accountability

Accountability in this relationship is mutual.

GM is accountable to the certified internal consultant for abiding by the terms of this relationship description.

The certified internal consultant is accountable to GM for abiding by the terms of this relationship description.